COMPLAINT

Plaintiff Demands a Jury Trial

Executive Law § 290, et seq. (“New York State Human Rights Law” or “NYSHRL”). Additionally, Plaintiff also alleges New York State claims under the theories of false imprisonment, negligent hiring, training, and supervision, and intentional infliction of emotional distress.
2. Plaintiffs seek declaratory and injunctive relief to redress the injuries Plaintiffs suffered as a result of Defendant’s actions.
3. Defendant is liable for the conduct of its managers and agents who exercised managerial and supervisory responsibility, and because Defendant had knowledge of their employees and agents’ discriminatory conduct, Defendant acquiesced in such conduct by failing to take immediate and appropriate corrective action.

4. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over the claims in this action under the provisions of 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1367.

PARTIES

8. Plaintiff Evan Barrett is a male citizen of the United States residing in New York County, who has dark skin and is of Puerto Rican descent, and is married to Plaintiff Shousterman.
9. Plaintiff Cara Shousterman is a resident of New York County, who has light skin and is of Canadian descent, and is married to Plaintiff Barrett.
10. Defendant CVS PHARMACY, INC., is a corporate entity authorized to conduct business in the State of New York.
11. CVS PHARMACY, INC., is a retail and health care company.

12. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

13. On or about November 2, 2015, a Monday, Plaintiff Shousterman went to Defendants' premises, a CVS store (hereinafter "CVS" or "store") located at 2182 Broadway between West 77th and West 78th Streets in New York, New York.

14. Upon information and belief, the above-mentioned premises were owned, maintained, controlled, supervised, subleased and possessed, leased and/or operated by Defendant.
15. Plaintiff Shousterman entered the store at approximately 8 p.m. with the intention to make a purchase.
16. Plaintiff Shousterman often visited this CVS location on Monday evenings because of a nearby weekly appointment with a medical provider, and would shop at the CVS store while she waited for her husband, Plaintiff Barrett, to pick her up in his car.
17. When Plaintiff Shousterman shopped at this store, her husband Plaintiff Barrett usually picked her up in his car on his way home. On this occasion, Plaintiff Barrett entered the store to meet her because he found a parking spot outside.
18. After entering the store, Plaintiff Barrett picked up and looked at a package of razor blades and then returned them to the shelf. He did not take or tamper with the razor blade package.
19. Plaintiffs met in the store and then proceeded to a self-checkout register to pay for their purchases. A cashier was monitoring the self-checkout registers and assisted Plaintiffs enter a purchase when a bar code did not scan correctly. The cashier saw Plaintiffs pay for all of their items.
20. After paying for the items, Plaintiffs began to exit the store.
21. However, before Plaintiffs could leave the store, an African American CVS employee wearing a jacket asked Plaintiff Barrett to come with him. He was larger than the Plaintiffs.
22. Upon information and belief, this employee was the manager of the store.

23. Plaintiff Shousterman followed Plaintiff Barrett to a room in the back of the store as he went with the manager.
24. Plaintiff Barrett asked why they were being stopped and the manager accused him of stealing from the store.
25. The manager also accused Plaintiff Barrett of using a magnetic key to demagnetize the sensors in a scheme to steal from CVS.
26. Plaintiffs did not take anything from the store and informed the manager that they did not try to take anything, and offered to empty their pockets. Plaintiffs also informed the manager that they did not have a demagnetizing device.
27. The manager refused to listen to the Plaintiffs and insisted that he saw Plaintiff Barrett steal something and that the store security camera captured him stealing, and that the police were on their way.
28. Plaintiffs were intimidated by the manager because of his authority, physical size, and his aggressive demands and insistence they had done something wrong.
29. Plaintiff Barrett told the manager to check the security camera footage again because he had done nothing wrong.
30. The manager then accused Plaintiff Barrett of hiding the demagnetizer in the store, despite having no proof of this, and despite the security camera footage not showing any such action.
31. Plaintiffs asked to speak to a manager, because they felt that we were being racially profiled by the CVS employees. At this point, the individual disclosed that he was the manager.

32. Plaintiffs told the manager they wanted to leave and return the items they had purchased and he refused to allow Plaintiffs to return the items the Plaintiffs had purchased.
33. Defendant has a liberal return policy that allows customers to return products of the nature that the Plaintiff purchased within thirty (30) days of the purchase date.
34. Defendant refused to allow the Plaintiffs to exercise their rights to terminate their purchase by returning the items that the Plaintiffs had purchased.
35. Despite the fact that the manager had not asked Plaintiff Shousterman to go to the back room with him, the manager told both Plaintiffs that they could not leave and kept them confined in the back room.
36. Plaintiffs wanted to leave but complied with the manager's order because the manager physically intimidated them.
37. There was also another CVS employee who came into and out of the room and the two employees were blocking the doorway.
38. Plaintiffs were afraid that if they tried to leave the CVS employees would try to stop them and that they would be physically battered in the process.
39. After waiting for some time, two New York Police Department Officers arrived.
40. The Police Officers told the Plaintiffs that they were being placed under arrest for shoplifting and the Officers placed the Plaintiffs in handcuffs against their will.
41. The NYPD Officers asked Plaintiffs what had happened, asked questions about their personal lives and our history, and searched through their belongings.
42. Plaintiffs answered all of the NYPD Officers' questions and told them they had not taken anything.

43. One of the NYPD Officers went to look at the store's security camera footage.
44. Upon information and belief, the store's security camera footage did not show Plaintiffs stealing anything from the store.
45. When the one of the NYPD Officers returned to the room he was laughing.
46. At that point, one of the Officers said that Plaintiffs hadn't taken anything and that "these guys always jump the gun."
47. Upon information and belief, the above statement by the NYPD Officer was referring to CVS employees' pattern, practice and/or propensity of targeting minority customers for discrimination.
48. The Police Officers unshackled the handcuffs that were restraining the Plaintiffs.
49. After unshackling the handcuffs that were restraining the Plaintiffs, the Police Officers escorted Plaintiffs out of the store in front of other customers.
50. Plaintiffs wanted to return the items they purchased from CVS and collect the names of the CVS manager because of their distress at the way they had been treated. However, the Police Officers ordered the Plaintiffs to leave.
51. Plaintiff Shousterman was extremely embarrassed to be publicly treated in this manner and felt physically ill. She was traumatized by the incident and since that time, has felt depressed, abused, stressed and has trouble concentrating at work.
52. The stress of the incident also exacerbated Plaintiff Shousterman's medical conditions. Following the incident, her symptoms grew worse as she suffered from extreme stomach pain and constipation. She had to visit her doctor to be prescribed medication to control these symptoms.

53. The symptoms described above make it difficult for Plaintiff Shousterman to function normally in her daily life, including at home and at work.
54. Plaintiff Barrett was also extremely embarrassed to be publicly treated in this manner and felt very ashamed to be falsely accused of committing a crime in front of his wife. He was traumatized by the incident, and since it occurred he has felt depressed and abused, and has suffered from anxiety and panic attacks due to these events.
55. Both Plaintiffs feel as if they can never return to this CVS store because they would feel unsafe.
56. As stated, Plaintiff Shousterman frequently shopped at this CVS location on Monday evenings and was never before accused of not paying for any items. The only difference on this occasion is that her husband Plaintiff Barrett, who has dark skin and is of Puerto Rican ancestry, met her inside the store and they shopped together.
57. The false allegations of theft were based on racial animus held by Defendant and its employees.
58. Despite having no reasonable proof, Defendant's employees accused Plaintiff Barrett of stealing and tampering with their security measures, confined both Plaintiffs to a small room and would not let them leave the store, called the police with a false report, and subjected Plaintiffs to a humiliating situation in public.
59. Defendant confined Plaintiffs without their consent or any reasonable justification.
60. Defendant discriminated against Plaintiff Barrett based on the color of his skin and his race and ethnicity, and against Plaintiff Shousterman based on her association with her husband.

81. The acts complained of which were carried out by the Defendant's employees, agents, and/or managers were not privileged under any case law or statutory legal basis.
82. The false imprisonment was accomplished with such gross disregard for the rights of the Plaintiffs as to constitute gross and malicious conduct and a high degree of moral culpability sufficient to warrant an award of punitive damages.
